

RYAN DINEEN

SPECIAL
CRISP

Ryan Dineen Piano Piano mural painted with Bacon.

I first came across Toronto Artist, Ryan Dineen's artwork back in 2006. While walking by an electrical box near Bickford Park I was taken aback by a beautiful painting of Miles Davis Ryan had spray painted on this dull brown box I passed everyday.

Fast forward to well over a decade later, through many a mural around Toronto, countless high-profile clients and the current medium of choice, oil on canvas, I am sitting in Ryan's studio watching him work his magic.

He is currently painting a stunning water scene. His paintings hold such somber discernment and I am so impressed by his ability to see the brilliance in the everyday ordinary and communicate it so masterfully. Here are a few shots of my visit at his studio and a few other shots of his past work and some murals around Toronto.
